I truly cannot possibly say enough good things about Dani. She came to my attention because my then 8th grade twins were in her class (not at the same time). They began to come home and talk about the things they were learning in science and about how they had not realized how much fun science was. Then she took the time to communicate with parents about what was happening in the classroom. No other teacher did this. My youngest child, a science lover, was in her class the following year and found her to be equally inspiring and challenging. And, she participated in so many events and activities outside of the classroom that I was able to get to know her as a person. This was a pleasure for my husband and myself. She is a delight, a fantastic teacher and a huge asset for any school. - Pam & Conrad Weiden, Previous Parents at SCIS
