

Ms. D was our son's science teacher at the International School of Panama in the 6th and 7th grades. She was my son's favorite teacher. She is exceptional. She had an "emotions board" for students to express how they felt at the beginning of each class. How many teachers care, or care to ask what 6th and 7th graders are feeling? I don't know any other teachers that did this at our school. As parents we were blown away by her enthusiasm and keen insight, as she got to know our son very well. She was very demanding academically and expected her students to give their best and to own their learning process. She is a no fuss, no excuses type of person. She has a big personality, a great sense of humor and always manages to generate interest in learning from her students. My son was extremely enthusiastic in her class. She will be greatly missed.
